Bone marrow derived EPC mobilization is decreased in chronic kidney disease patients: a novel biomarker of endothelial damage? Aortic atherosclerosis is increased in end-stage renal disease, and its underlying pathophysiologic mechanisms are unknown.

Since vascular endothelial damage is a common cause of atherosclerosis, we sought to investigate possible changes of bone marrow derived endothelial progenitor cells (EPC) in chronic kidney disease (CKD) patients. We measured circulating EPCs using flow cytometry, and compared EPC levels between CKD patients (n=61) and patients with type 2 diabetes mellitus (T2DM, n=45), a well-known risk factor for atherosclerosis, and control subjects (n=49). Furthermore, we studied whether advanced glycation end product levels and retinol-binding protein 4 were associated with circulating EPC levels. CKD patients had significantly decreased levels of circulating EPCs compared to T2DM and control subjects, and were characterized by a significant reduction in the percentage of EPC in the CD45 low CD14-CD15+ granulocytic-monocytic cells. Multivariate analysis showed that decreased circulating EPC levels in CKD patients were associated independently with both age and diabetes mellitus. The percentage of granulocytic monocytic cells with increased albuminuria was significantly higher in CKD patients, and correlated with serum retinol-binding protein 4. These findings demonstrate a novel reduction in bone marrow derived EPC levels in CKD patients, reflecting endothelial damage in early stages of CKD. This indicates that EPCs may be a useful biomarker of vascular damage in CKD.

Q: How to schedule a wallpaper image to be uploaded to Windows Server 2012 R2? I want to have a background image being uploaded to a Windows Server 2012 R2 Image Wallpaper each hour, at midnight, via a scheduled task. I've tried using the following T-SQL command: declare @now datetime = getdate(), @minutes = 60 update ImageWallpaper set ImagePath = @ImagePath where ImageWallpaper.ID = '4326' UPDATE: Based on the answers I received, I tried a batch script but it wouldn't work properly. However, at this point I can't remove the T-SQL query, because that will result in the images not being uploaded. UPDATE #2: The following batch script works fine, except that it never finishes, the process just hangs indefinitely. declare @now datetime = getdate(), @minutes = 60 WHILE @now
