There's one thing about the Adobe Photoshop that I love. They will continue to improve it, better and better. That's the only company that I know that never sells a product and they just continue to improve it. The latest version of Lightroom is no exception. Earlier a lot of the work had to be done in Photoshop. I don't think that they do that anymore. I think that they really separate the features out so that we can really harness the power of what Photoshop can do. With over 20 years of experience in digital imaging, it's never been easier to use Photoshop. It's also never been better thanks to revolutionary features such as Adobe Camera Raw, Content-aware Fill, Content-aware Move, and Adjustment layers. With Lightroom 5, type "CR" into a general search window and you'll find it at the bottom of the sidebar.

And many more. It helps you manage a large number of images and videos. In fact, the full title of the Lightroom 5 is "Lightroom Classic CC." What It Does: The Paths tool lets you create, edit, or delete paths on a layer with some fine control. You can select exactly where the path opens up, close it, or merge it into another path. The tool is also very useful for creating custom shapes and using them as guides on layers. And because the paths are editable, you can easily use the paths to create soft shadow edges that feel more natural. What It Does: The Paintbrush tool lets you control the amount of brush stroke using the slider that's built into the tool. It's useful for creating more organic, painterly effects and for creating a watercolor-style effect, which you can then layer onto multiple layers with different blending modes to create new overall effects.
